

Polycarbonate

Polycarbonate is probably the most durable material you can get. Common uses include components in electrical devices and machine guards. Its durability sets it apart from PETG but the cost is a little higher. You can purchase polycarbonate in limited colors and thicknesses but there are a few standard characteristics for specialty projects including UV-0 fire ratings.